

CHIEF MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER

THE OPPORTUNITY

Interior Health is seeking a Chief Medical Health Officer to join our close-knit and supportive team in the beautiful city of Kelowna, British Columbia.

The Chief Medical Health Officer (CMHO) fulfills the role of leading Population and Public Health programs at Interior Health, while being jointly accountable to the Provincial Health Officer.

Programs that fall under the responsibility of the CMHO include health promotion, disease and injury prevention, and health protection. The CMHO oversees the work of Interior Health's Medical Health Officers and plays a lead role in terms of epidemiology and surveillance. The CMHO will hold overall accountability for compliance with the Public Health Act and a number of other related legislation and regulations.

Kelowna is the perfect place to explore your potential and discover the meaning of work/life balance. With award-winning vineyards and orchards embordering the pristine waters of Okanagan Lake, it's easy to see why Kelowna is one of the fastest growing cities in the nation.
